The Standing Order Plan for A.L.A. Publications

PERHAPS you've been putting it off . . . or have felt your library just couldn't afford it. Then again you may not know about it. Under the Standing Order Plan you can place your order for A.L.A. books in any of 10 categories set up on the basis of price and interest. When a new book in the category you have selected—and there is a category for your specific needs—is published, automatic priority shipment is made to you. As a Standing Order subscriber you also receive a 10% discount on all books shipped under your Standing Order, the only general library discount A.L.A. offers from its low net prices. Why not do as hundreds of public, school, college and university libraries are doing? The time and money you save will mean more books for your library . . . and you won't be taking any chances of missing the important professional tools and reference books being published by A.L.A.

Note these important advantages—

- ★ You order in the category of your choice
- ★ You receive automatic shipment as new books are published
- ★ You eliminate individual orders for single books
- ★ You save tangible dollars because of the 10% discount
- ★ You may cancel your Standing Order at any time

Five-Year Index
College and Research Libraries
Volumes XVI-XX

Prepared by R. H. Schimmelpfeng

This index is a complete revision of the annual indexes. The following points are called to your attention:

This is primarily an author-subject index. Thus the only title entries in this index are those for anonymously written articles and for symposia.

Book reviews of reports of library surveys are indexed under SURVEYS along with substantive articles about surveys. These are the only book reviews indexed by subject.

ABBREVIATIONS

Standard abbreviations for names of organizations, ALA, ACRL, LC, etc., are alphabetized as if spelled out. Other abbreviations:

TWO NEW ACRL MONOGRAPHS

With Important Answers to Important Questions

Scientists' Approaches to Information

ACRL Monograph No. 24

By Melvin J. Voigt

How do scientists locate the information they need? The author answers this question in a study of the current approach, the everyday approach, and the exhaustive approach of the scientist to information. The report reveals the effectiveness of available reference and bibliographical resources and suggests new tools. Data for the report is based on interviews with Scandinavian scientists whose language command enables them to use materials solely on the basis of intrinsic value. Valuable not only for the science librarian and scientist, but for all those concerned with the organization and retrieval of information. Published in June. $2.50

College and University Library Surveys, 1938-1952

ACRL Monograph No. 25

By E. Walfred Erickson

What happens after a college or university library is surveyed and the findings submitted to the administration and the library director? Are there constructive results? The author, who is head librarian, Eastern Michigan University, answers these questions by examining the progress made in implementing the surveyors' recommendations in twelve libraries. Among the libraries studied are Cornell University, Montana State University, University of South Carolina, and Virginia Polytechnic Institute. A valuable guide for the college and university library or administration considering such a survey. Bibliography, tables. Ready in August. Probably $3.25

ALA members are pleased and proud to see the publication of this five-year index to COLLEGE AND RESEARCH LIBRARIES

. . . PLEASED because of its value to librarians in improving academic library services.

. . . PROUD because through their membership in the American Library Association they have had a part in producing it.

If you are not now a member of the Association, you are cordially invited to join with the twenty-five thousand members who advance librarianship through such activities as these.

OUR GOAL—The Five story, $1,000,000 structure to house American Library Association headquarters is a modern, functional unit being constructed on the site of the present building.
